City of Eunice combating scams

HOBBS NEWS-SUN • THURSDAY, MAY 30, 2013

Vending license to sell anything from vacuums to candy, Jones said there are some itinerant salespeople who stop by City Hall to purchase a license, which is $30 for a year or $5 for one day. "If there's any doubt, the city will have to go on the address," he said.

Mayor Matt White echoed Jones’ suspicion and said a few weeks ago, “We don’t mind people coming here doing business the right way, but we don’t want to open up our community to scams.”

White said if Eunice residents are suspicious of door-to-door sales tactics, contact the police department.

If you have any concerns, contact the police immediately,” he said. "We don’t mind people coming here doing business the right way, but we don’t want to open up our community to scams.

"There’s just so many scams and whatnot that occur in our community. For more information, call Debra Japh at 575-393-9919."
