Firm hired to build 2 schools

GABRIELA MURDOZ

Bradley Shunn team members are ready to tackle the challenge of simultaneously constructing two elementary schools in the Hobbs school district.

The Albuquerque-based construction company was recently contracted for the construction of a new Broadmoor Elementary and a new 400-student Señor Elementary, which will be constructed adjacent to Hobbs City Park.

Denise Towne, executive vice-president of Bradley Stamnich and lead coach of the construction project, said the team was looking forward to working with the district to get the two schools constructed.

“We love building schools,” Towne said. “It’s really a neat opportunity to do this at the same time for a school district. This is extremely exciting. We’re itching to go.”

The company will be responsible for the construction of a 400-student kindergarten-fifth grade elementary school which will include the Jenkins-Nunn Learning Center and a new 400-student Broadmoor Elementary School.

The new 8,000-square-foot elementary school will be located next to Hobbs City Park at 526 Old West Pass Street. The new Broadmoor school building will replace the current school building and will be constructed wherever the current streets are.

“Light It Up Blue,” March 29 at the fourth annual awareness event in the Lea County Fairgrounds from 11 a.m.-3 p.m.

April is Autism Awareness Month, and Lea County is no different. A group of adults and families who typically appears during the first three years of life and affects a person’s ability to communicate and interact with others.

The Autism Awareness Center for Education and Services Parent-Teacher Organization will hold a conference to raise awareness and show support for the community coming together this month for the event. The PTO also will be raising money for a new playground at the Lea County LACES school.

“We have had anywhere from 300-400 people come by,” said Kim Hix, director of the Autism Awareness Center. “We have changed it now to the Lea County LACES school.”

Teens: Facility needs high standards

City exploring multi-generation facility

Several Hobbs youth told city commissioners they would like to see a multi-generation facility built in Hobbs but wanted it to be a place where out-of-towners would get a feel of Lea County’s “respectable” communities.

Teen Court of Lea County youth members presented to the Hobbs city commission their thoughts on the Genoveva Chavez Community Recreation Center in Santa Fe, during a Monday commission meeting.

City Manager J.J. Murphy said he met up with some of the youth at the state’s capital at the beginning of February.

“We took a two-week trip to Ireland,” Suzy said. “We went sightseeing all over the country and Michael especially back to his great grandfather, who immigrated to the U.S. in 1861 from Limerick, Ireland. His great-grandfather married an Irish woman and became a farmer in Carroll, Mich.

“Michael enjoyed learning about his family’s heritage,” Suzy said. “He really appreciated the Irish culture and everything about it.”

Collopy was diagnosed with esophageal cancer three years ago and was battling the disease with chemotherapy sessions when he passed away. However, he was able to make his dream vacation to Ireland with his wife before the cancer affected his health.

“Upon entry, fire crews were trying to extinguish the blaze but the woman was too weak to help herself by her shoulders.”
